

SEN. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE DIES TODAY IN WASHINGTON AMUNDSEN SAFE AFTER POLE FLIGHT

POLAR EXPLORER RETURNS TO PLANE BASE AT SPITZBERGEN

Whole Party Has Returned
Safely to Landing Point,
New York Is Told

STARTED IN TWO PLANES

Amundsen Intended to Fly
Over Pole to Find Companions of Previous Expedition

New York.—The North American newspaper Alliance announced Thurs- day that Raold Amundsen, the ex- plorer, has returned to Spitzbergen from his north pole flight.

Bernon S. Prentice, brother in law of Lincoln Ellsworth, co-leader of the expedition, said he had received word that all six members of the expedition had returned to Spitzbergen.

Amundsen, veteran of several polar expeditions, left Spitzbergen on May 21, 1925, determined to fly over the pole. He started with two planes and it was his intention to abandon one of the planes near the pole, stock the other with unused fuel and con- tinue his flight to Alaska where he had hidden a large amount of gaso- line.

One of the principal reasons for Amundsen's flight was his desire to reach the ship Maud which had been abandoned with a crew of eight men in a polar expedition in 1922. He had promised the men he would return to them and it was his deter- mination when he left Spitzbergen to pay them a visit and direct their overland escape back to civilization. The Maud had fuel and food sufficient to last eight years and there was every probability that the men were alive and well. Whether he was able to reach the Maud has not been de- termined.

The distance from Spitzbergen to the north pole and return is about 1,400 miles.

Amundsen had made an attempt in 1922 to fly into the polar region but his plane was wrecked.

The flight from Spitzbergen was made with the best equipment money could buy. His planes were twin- motored and were considered the last word in aerial machinery.

French Communists Angered
at Being Shut Out from Secret Deliberations

Paris.—An official report of Pre- mier Painleve's statement on the Moroccan situation before the cham- ber of deputies committee Wednes- day night is lacking as the meeting was confidential, but LeMatin Thursday morning presented an out- line of his purported remarks.

The premier spoke after Socialist extremists had voiced opposition to his policy and after Communist de- puties had attempted to gain entrance by rushing the door of the committee room from which they were barred because of their refusal to observe the required secrecy.

According to LeMatin's account, M. Painleve told the committee that France's plan of campaign against Abd-El-Krim, the Rifian chief, did not include any general offensive ac- tion among the Rif mountains.

Abd-El-Krim, he said, was able to conduct an offensive far stronger in technical equipment than France had ever had to with the stand in Moroc- co.

A dispatch from Fez, French Moroc- co, Wednesday said unconfirmed re- ports were in circulation among the Moroccan tribesmen that Abd-El-Krim had been killed during a recent French aerial bombardment.

FAIMAN TO BE EXAMINED BY JUDGE LYNCH

Defense Objects to Calling in Shepherd Accuser as Court's Witness

Chicago, Ill.—Judge Thomas Lynch Thursday decided to call Charles Faiman as a court's witness in the Shep- herd trial to interrogate him on di- rect evidence and then permit the state and defense in turn to cross-ex- aminate.

Springing an eleventh hour sur- prise, the prosecution Wednesday re- quested that Faiman, who has de- clared he gave typhoid germs to Shepherd and told him how to slay McClintock, be summoned by the court. The motion was opposed bitter- ly by Defense Attorney W. S. Ste- wart and W. W. O'Brien, who said they would waive objection only if State's Attorney Crowe would say the witness was "not worthy of belief."

Mr. Crowe replied he would not say that.

"It simply means," he told the judge, "that the state does not vouch for him and does not wish to be bound by his testimony, that a man jointly indicted with the defendant and a confessed accomplice who more than once has changed his story."

In the argument, which had not been concluded in the judge's cham- bers before adjournment, the defense contended that Mr. Crowe was not acting in good faith, and that the prosecution hoped through the move to broaden its scope of questioning.

Before this question arose, the state had indicated its case would be com- pleted with the appearance of Faiman.

Wausau.—Stanley Bickford, Jr., 3, was struck by an automobile and so severely injured that he died an hour later Wednesday afternoon at a frat- ernal club, being the cause of death. Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Bick- ford had a daughter, also aged three years, killed by an automobile at al- most the same place. Edward Ander- son, driver of the car which struck the child Wednesday was overcome mentally and was taken to his home, but his condition is not serious. The accident, according to witnesses was unavoidable.

SESSIONS AT MADISON ARE NEARING END

Houses of Legislature Dispose of 130 Measures on Wednesday

Madison.—The legislature Thursday of comparatively a minor importance for the session, only a few measures had disposed of most of its business remaining for consideration. The drive Wednesday night resulted in the disposal of approximately 80 bills in the assembly and 50 in the senate.

Among the measures enacted or killed in the assembly were a num- ber of outstanding importances. They were:

The Schumann bill for consolidation of the agriculture and marketing de- partments, defeated by non-concur- rence, 55 to 22.

The administration conservation bill, appropriating for conservation all money earned by the conservation commission and requiring payment of the surplus of all netter amounts of $50,000 to the general fund for in- terest and principal in land invest- ment. This bill goes to Governor Blaine, who has approved it, the as- sembly concurring, 70 to 2 after the senate passed it, 24 to 1.

The administration agricultural de- partment appropriation bill, contain- ing approximately $750,000 annually for bovine tuberculosis eradication, which was concurred in 62 to 11.

Severson bill to appropriate $1, 765,000 for bovine tuberculosis eradication, defeated by non-concurrence, 59 to 19.

Inheritance tax rates revision bill, killed by non-concurrence, 47 to 32.

Gottelman bill permitting drug stores to handle intoxicating liquors while licensed to sell non-intoxicating beverages, concurred in.

COMMEND COOLIDGE

The lower house adopted and sent two resolutions to the senate. One, by Edwards, commends President Coolidge and congress for reduction in federal taxes, expenditures and in- debtedness and the other, by Good- man, would refer to the next legisla- ture a proposed constitutional amend- ment allowing tax relief on forests for reforestation. The votes were 41 to 35 and 62 to 8, respectively.

The session long fight of W. Stan- ley Smith, insurance commissioner, to obtain enactment of bill 1758 re- vising the entire insurance code of the state found a climax Wednesday night in the state senate in defeat of the bill, 14 to 13. After the bill had been taken from the table where it had rested for many weeks, Senator John C. Schumann moved indefinite postponement. Senators Johnson, Tri- tus, Dargatz and Morris spoke brief- ly for the bill while Senator Schum- mann made a short speech against it. Reconsideration was refused.

Less than a two-thirds majority vote of the senate was mustered to override the veto of Governor Blaine on the bill to tax the income of banks in lieu of tax on capital stock. The vote was 12 to 16.

Newspapers In Quandary As To Publicity On Income Tax

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington, D. C.—Although the supreme court of the United States has decided that it is legal to print the amounts paid by individuals as federal income tax, there is no question that the executive branch of the govern- ment still clings to the view that the publication is unwise and unjust.

Under the circumstances, many newspapers are asking whether the government would prefer to have them eliminate the lists when they are made available by the different collectors of internal revenue.

Several newspaper executives al- ready have decided that no good pur- pose is subserved by the publication of this income tax data and that much- harmed results particularly as the amount of tax paid is not a true index of the gross receipts or profits of an individual.

The view is taken by some that newspapers being forbidden to publish the other details of a tax return, name- ly the allowable deductions, it is not expedient to print a one-sided story. Other newspapers take the position that if the law works injustice the easiest way to secure its repeal is to keep on printing the lists.

opinion. Many editors who thought the law unwise and who stated they were advocating its repeal insisted that they had no alternative but to publish the lists in the meantime because they constituted the public records of news importance. Other editors said that the government had no moral right to permit the publication of a person's private affairs and that a newspaper's duty, therefore, justified in refusing to invade the privacy of the individual.

There are many newspaper execu- tives who are undecided as to what policy to pursue as they do not like to be in the position of suppressing any news including any essential facts about their own income taxes. Also in many cities if one newspaper is in- clined to publish the lists, the com- peting newspaper may feel obliged to do the same to avoid being in the po- sition of suppressing news.

One whole thing has been discussed here by government officials to whom it has been suggested that a pro- nouncement from the government it- self might be a guide for newspapers and give them justification for declin- ing to print the lists.

It is unlikely that the president would make any request that the list be left to such publicity as can be obtained by any individual who calls at the offices of the collectors of internal revenue but there is little doubt he feels that way about it. It would be unprecedented for the government in time of peace to ask the press to refrain from printing any government records that are available for publica- tion but in this case it is apparent that many newspapers would sym- pathize with such a request and follow it literally. The indications are that owing to the delicacy of asking that anything be omitted from publication, the government ultimately will take no formal part, simply leaving it to the newspapers to decide now as a year ago.

"FIGHTING BOB" GOES DOWN IN LAST BATTLE OF CAREER

Badger Leader Succumbs to Attack of Heart Disease
Following Asthma

END COMES RAPIDLY

Was Storm Center in Politics of Wisconsin and United States for Years

BULLETIN
Washington, D. C.—Senator
LaFollette will be buried Monday in Madison, Wis., his home city, after funeral services in the state capitol.

Washington, D. C.—Senator Robert Marion LaFollette, for many years a stormy petrel of American politics, died here Thursday.

Death resulted at 1:21 p. m. from heart disease induced by a general breakdown and an attack of bronchial asthma.

Tentative arrangements call for the funeral services to be held at Madison instead of at Washington. If these are carried through, the fune- ral party will leave here Friday after- noon, arriving at Madison Saturday. The Wisconsin senator and later in- dependent presidential candidate be- gan failing in health even before the 1924 campaign. Several weeks ago he contracted a severe cold which de- veloped into asthma. His heart, which had been unable to stand the strain, gave way during the night, and he sank rapidly after daylight Thursday. Although they realized the serious- ness of Senator LaFollette's condition, members of his family had hoped until Thursday that he would recover. Wed- nesday night his physicians said he was resting, but nevertheless he took a quick and decided turn for the worse in the night hours and hope was aban- doned.

Senator LaFollette long was a victim of angina pectoris, a heart ailment, and this, with his asthmatic attack, caused him to suffer greatly from shortness of breath. Violent coughing spells accompanied his illness.

Almost to the last, however, he in- sisted on cheerful reports being given out as to his illness, and it was not until Wednesday that it was admitted that his condition was serious.

A heart attack coming during the morning hours found the patient weak after a long battle with grip and as- thma, but he continued to fight death with the old time tenacity of purpose which has carried him through many a dramatic political battle.

He remained barely conscious and appeared to realize the seriousness of his condition. Only occasionally did he speak to those about him and when he spoke it was with apparent great effort.

"I think I have earned a long rest," he said Wednesday when a change for the worse apparently had brought to him some premonition of the end, but Thursday as his plight grew hard- ly more precarious, he preferred to fight. It was his stubborn retention of consciousness against the pressure of waning strength that gave those about him a flicker of hope.

POLICE SEARCHING CHICAGO TUNNELS FOR RASH GUNMAN

Chicago, Ill.—Search for more than two hours Wednesday night in the labyrinth of tunnels 40 feet under the surface of Chicago's busi- ness section failed to produce any trace of a gunman who Tuesday evening fired at a policeman in States Attorney Crowe's office.

The man, thought to be Tony Spano of the Genna gang, was be- lieved to have been seeking Mr. Crowe who recently with Chief of Police Collins started a drive on the underworld. After fleeing from the county building he disappeared into one of the tunnels and Wednesday a man thought to be the fugitive was seen by workmen at another point in the tunnel.

Armed with tear bombs and other weapons, 250 policemen were sent in squads to make a systematic search of the tunnels Wednesday night.

Phillip LaFollette and the two daugh- ters, Mrs. George Middleton, of New York and Mrs. Ralph Sucher of Washington.

MORE ACTIVITY
His decision to become an independ- ent candidate for the presidency was followed by more activity on the part of the senior Wisconsin senator than he had evinced in months. However, he did not permit himself to overdo and left considerable of the work of the campaign to his associates and supporters, and confined most of his speaking activities to a swing through the east.

He returned to Madison to cast his ballot and remained at the state capitol during the evening to read the election returns which were furnished him by a special Associated Press wire. He remained until election night only long enough to assure himself of having carried Wisconsin by an over- whelming vote and retired to learn of his decisive defeat throughout the na- tion the following day.

He returned to Washington, and there developed another attack of a respiratory infection, which caused him to go to Florida in January where he remained until late in March, returning to Washington in time to vote against the appointment of Charles E. Warren as attorney general. Shortly after he arrived in Washington after the November elec- tion, the Republicans virtually read Senator LaFollette, with Senators Ladd and Frzier of North Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa out of the party. The resolution which was read at a meeting of Republican sen- ators was to the effect that the four senators who had worked in the inter- est of the independent campaign should not be named to fill vacancies on any committees, and should not be invited to attend conferences.

SOUGHT CHANGE
Recurring attacks of influenza and grip caused Senator LaFollette to seek a milder climate and he left Washington for Florida, where he re- mained during the spring. Returning to Washington, it was an- nounced, that he would spend the summer and fall at his farm home near Madison. It was expected that he would leave Washington early in May, but in developing a slight in- disposition, and from time to time his condition became worse until physi- cians announced early in June that he was suffering from a rather severe cold which would confine him to his bed for several weeks, but which was not considered serious. This an- nouncement was followed by another which said he was suffering from bronchial asthma.

Jury Awards Peter Peterson
$1,800 in His Suit for $25,-
000 Damages

After an hour of deliberation Wednesday evening a jury awarded Peter Peterson $1,800 in his suit for $25,000 damages against Robert Kuehne and Henry Ziesemer. Peterson charged Ziesemer with striking him with a car belonging to Robert Kuehne, his employer, while walking on the public highway at Hofa Park, Shawano-co on July 5, 1923, causing serious and permanent injuries.

The case went to the jury at 6:15 Wednesday evening after an all-day session and after an hour of recess, a sealed verdict was returned at 3:15 p. m.

The questions of the special verdict were: "Was the plaintiff, Peter Peterson, injured at the time and place of the accident? The answer was 'yes.' 'Did the automobile of the defendant, Robert Kuehne, cause the injury in question to the plaintiff?' It was answered 'yes.' 'At the time of the accident was the defendant, Henry Ziesemer, in the employment of the defendant, Robert Kuehne?' 'Yes.' 'Was the defendant, Henry Ziesemer, guilty of want of ordinary care in the management and operation of the car immediately prior to the accident which caused the injury to the plaintiff?' 'Yes.' 'If the preceding question was answered, 'yes' was such a want of care on the part of the defendant, Henry Ziesemer, at the time and place of accident, the cause of the injury to the plaintiff?' 'Yes.' 'Was the plaintiff, Peter Peterson, guilty of any want of ordinary care?' 'No.' If the plaintiff, Peter Peterson, was injured through no want of care on his part, what amount of damages should he receive?'—$1,800."

Senator LaFollette Dies At His Home In Washington

number, length and power of his legislative messages and the great legislative battles over his reforms.

While elected in 1900 by the hitherto unparalleled majority of more than 100,000, he was strongly opposed for re-nomination in 1902 and more fiercely in the memorable campaign in 1904. In addition to many other contests over minor measures, three major legislative battles were fought to a successful conclusion while he was governor. These were over primary elections, ad valorem taxation of railroads and the creation of a railroad commission to regulate railroads and other public utilities. All of these propositions were defeated in the 1901 session, but were enacted in 1903 and 1905, and in a referendum in 1904 the people sustained the primary election law and put it into effect.

LaFollette was governor of Wisconsin from Jan. 1, 1901, to Jan. 1, 1906. He was the first native born governor of the state and possibly the youngest man elected to the office up to that time.

A survey of some of the more outstanding legislation of his period as governor shows that he accomplished the following:

Largely brought about abolition of the railroad pass in Wisconsin. Obtained enactment of the law requiring railroads to pay taxes on the valuation of their physical property at the same rate as other property.

FOUGHT FRAUDS
Found that railroads by making incorrect returns of their income, had defrauded the state out of taxes and in suits against the railroads recovered $319,491.

Obtained passage of the law creating the Wisconsin railroad commission which provided for physical valuation of the lines, gave the commission power to regulate rates and was estimated to have saved Wisconsin $3,000,000 a year.

Forced passage of the anti-lobby law requiring all lobbyists to register and limiting their activities to appearances before committees.

Obtained passage of the corrupt practices act designed to purify causes and elections.

LaFollette sought to free the people from what he said was boss rule and obtained the primary election law, under which every voter may vote directly for his choice for every office from alderman to United States senator.

He obtained passage of the most comprehensive civil service law in force in any state and the establishment of the first legislative reference and bill-drafting service in the country.

The LaFollette movement in Wisconsin established a central system of comprehensive accounting for all public moneys, raised new standards of civic honesty, and gave the state a system of improved banking legislation to protect the public.

LaFollette instituted a policy in labor legislation which included the abatement of child labor, requiring sanitary surroundings and conveniences in places of employment and liability legislation for the benefit of injured employees or their families in case of death through industrial accidents. He placed Wisconsin in the vanguard of the movement for conservation of natural resources.

LaFollette's appointments to important positions were recognized for the fitness of the appointees. He recognized woman's cooperation in government by appointing women to places in the public service and was a consistent advocate of equal suffrage.

The laws enacted while LaFollette was governor was the foundation for the legislation which gave Wisconsin the designation "progressive" and which attracted attention throughout the United States.

Before his election as governor he served as district attorney of Dane county from 1890 to 1894, when he was elected to congress where he served until 1890.

Robert Marion LaFollette, considered one of the most powerful orators of his time, was a storm center of personal and political controversy throughout the nation and in his home state of Wisconsin for more than a quarter of a century.

"Fighting Bob," the name by which he was known to political friends and enemies alike, was a title well earned from the moment he stepped into the political arena when scarcely more than a boy. Facing battles such as few, if any, of his political contemporaries were compelled to fight, he served three terms as a member of the House of Representatives and three as Governor of Wisconsin, was four times elected to the United States Senate, and finally, became an independent candidate for President in 1924.

TARGET OF ATTACK
Perhaps few American public men ever drew such bitter criticism as was heaped upon LaFollette during and immediately after the World war and certainly none could have been more staunchly defended by his friends. His speeches and public policies had been the target for spread denunciations prior to 1917, while the great conflict raged in Europe, but the crisis came when he stood against America entering the struggle when the Lusitania outrage and other violations of our neutrality were still burning in the public mind. He was hung in effigy and even threatened with expulsion proceedings in the Senate, but in the 1922 elections he was sent back to his place in Washington by a tremendous majority.

Three Senator LaFollette was placed in nomination for the Presidency in Republican conventions in 1905, in 1912 when he charged Theodore Roosevelt with promising to support him and then becoming the Progressive candidate himself, and again in 1916. In each convention LaFollette had the support of a small but intrepid bloc of delegates, as he did in the 1920 and 1924 Republican conventions where he received a handful of votes, although not formally placed in nomination.

Nominally a member of the Republican party, Senator LaFollette was best known for his long and toward progressive or radical policies and for his life-long fight against trusts and monopolies. Throughout his public life he was continually at odds with his party leaders and most of his associates—an insurgent of insurgents—in his home state and in the nation capital.

CALL CONVENTION
LaFollette's insurgency reached a climax in 1924. His followers in Senate and House, defying Republican leadership, had demonstrated they held the balance of power. The election was precluded that although he had been desperately ill he would seek the presidency as an independent or as the head of a new party, but the Senator himself steadfastly declined to disclose his intentions.

The Republicans in convention at Cleveland having selected Coolidge as their standard bearer after rejecting the platform demands of the Wisconsin delegation, LaFollette's adherents issued a call for a convention in the same auditorium several weeks later. Urged by delegates to this conference that he accept their endorsement as a presidential candidate, he sent word in a message which berated both the old parties that he would enter the field as an independent. Declaration of his candidacy came on Independence Day with the Democrats in their New York convention, still balloting for a presidential nominee.

His decision injected him into the campaign as a full-fledged candidate, with Senator Burton K. Wheeler, a Montana Democrat, as a running mate, and President Coolidge as his Republican opponent and John W. Davis, his Democratic opposition.

BORN ON FARM
Born on a farm near Madison, June 14, 1855, LaFollette was a contemporary of Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding, as well as "Czar" Reed, James G. Blaine and Mark Hanna.

In stature he was a figure to attract attention. His build was short, heavy and exceptionally strong, with a broad chest, a wide girth and powerful arms. He wore a high, heavy pompadour above deep-set, sharp blue-brown eyes with overhanging brows, and had a broad, high forehead, prominent aquiline nose and mobile mouth.

In public address, Senator LaFollette's delivery was dynamic and dramatic always, with violent gestures and penetrating voice. When he warmed to an oratorical effort, he had a habit of tossing back his pompadour with a quick, sharp jerk of the head and running his fingers through his thick locks. His speeches often lasted for hours, especially during his filibusters in the Senate.

Senator LaFollette derived his name from ancestral stock of French Huguenot refugees. His Kentucky father, Josiah LaFollette, and his mother, Mary (Purgeson) LaFollette, were pioneers in Wisconsin, where they came from Indiana. Their children were reared in the face of poverty, but all were able to attend the rural schools.

WAS MAGAZINE EDITOR
LaFollette was admitted to the University of Wisconsin by special waiver of entrance charges. He soon attained prominence in dramatic and debating classes, and also as editor of the college magazine. After his graduation, he was called upon to support his mother and sister while teaching a country school and studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1889 and soon entered politics as a candidate for prosecuting attorney. Despite the opposition of what he termed political bosses and machines, he was elected and subsequently re-elected. Again over the opposition of party leaders, he was nominated and elected to the Forty-ninth Congress in 1884, becoming at 29 years of age the youngest member of the House.

He was appointed to a place on the Ways and Means Committee by Speaker Reed, and worked with William McKinley, then a member of the same committee, in framing the McKinley tariff law. His first speech in the House was against "port barrel" river and harbor appropriations, and by blocking or amending bills sponsored by the leaders, he early classified himself as an "insurgent."

GOVERNOR IN 1901
Elected Governor of Wisconsin in 1901 on a reform platform, he launched a fight against railroad influence in state politics, and also, led the movement for the direct primary law, adopted by the Wisconsin legislature in 1904. He was elected to the Senate the same year, and resigned from the Governorship.

As a Presidential candidate Senator LaFollette began an active campaign for progressive support in December 1911 but while speaking in Philadelphia the following February he collapsed after a long address and many of his supporters turned to Roosevelt. He continued his campaign, but it was a hopeless enterprise.

During his early service in the senate, he won prominence by repeated forays against "special privilege" and "special interests" in tariff and other legislation. He broke with President Taft in 1911 and opposed the administration's Canadian reciprocity treaty. He was an early advocate of woman suffrage, labor legislation and taxation of the wealthy classes. Later he advocated recall of judges and judicial decisions, and came out in favor of nationalizing the railways.

TALKED FOUR DAYS
Included in the long list of measures against which he fought stubbornly were the Aldrich-Vreeland currency act, the Commerce Court act, and the Payne-Almch tariff measure. He made a speech lasting four days advocating the unseating of Senator Lorimer of Illinois, and was prominent in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy that as a critic of President Taft and a supporter of Mr. Pinchot.

Opposing American intervention in the World war, Senator LaFollette urged a peace conference of neutrals. He took a leading part in the spectacular filibuster against the armed ship bill, asked for by President Wilson, and encompassed its defeat early in 1917. He was among the famous "twelve wilful men" named by President Wilson as obstructionists.

After voting against the American war declaration, Senator LaFollette also opposed the selective draft act, but supported the enormous war appropriations and other bills. He sponsored many "free speech" proposals, fought ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, and in many long speeches after the war urged amnesty for those convicted under the espionage act.

HUNG IN EFFIGY
During 1917 the Senate received a mass of petitions demanding Senator LaFollette's expulsion, principally because of a speech at St. Paul to a Non-Partisan League convention. The Minnesota public safety commission was among those demanding his unseating, and the Wisconsin legislature passed resolutions of censure. It was during this political period that Mr. LaFollette was hung in effigy and denounced by resolutions of civil and other organizations throughout the country. An investigation of the St. Paul speech, based on the war and America's part in it, finally was made by the Senate privileges and elections committee. Senator LaFollette submitted copies of the speech and other evidence, and charged that he had been misquoted, a charge admitted by some of the reporters, and the Senate inquiry was dropped in February, 1918.

Always a champion of labor, the LaFollette seamen's law, designed to safeguard the interests of American seamen, probably is the most important measure bearing his name. Labor formed the nucleus of the support to his independent candidacy for the Presidency.

STARTED OIL INQUIRY
LaFollette had many important committee assignments in the Senate. For years he was a veteran member of the finance and interstate commerce committees, and as chairman of the manufactures committee he conducted an extensive investigation into gasoline prices. He was author of the resolution under which the Senate inquiry into the leasing of Teapot Dome and other naval oil reserves was undertaken.

Senator LaFollette took a prominent part in the framing of tariff and tax legislation, fighting the Fordney-McCumber tariff measure of the Harding administration and opposing many of the changes proposed in the internal tax law during the Sixty-Seventh Congress and the first session of the Sixty-Eight Congress. He also was active in opposing President Harding's shipping bill.

Ill health handicapped LaFollette somewhat after his re-election to the Senate in 1922. In the summer and fall of 1923, during a tour of Europe, he contracted a severe cold. After his return to the United States he suffered an attack of grip. He was unable to attend the opening of the Sixty-Eighth Congress but from his sick bed, he directed the organization fight waged by the Republican insurgents in both House and Senate. He returned to his office later, but soon fell victim to another cold which confined him to his bed and eventually developed into pneumonia.

BACK IN HARNESS
Recovering, he returned to the Senate floor during the closing days of the session, just prior to the national conventions, and demanded among other things that Congress remain in session to pass legislation designed to benefit farmers and labor. Although in a weakened condition, he delivered a lengthy speech, urging a loan to Germany, with much of his old-time vigor. This led to the belief among his friends that after all he would be in physical shape to conduct a campaign, if he decided to become a presidential candidate.

The domestic and private life of Senator LaFollette might be termed ideal. At the age of 28, he married Miss Belle Cas of Baraboo, Wis., and from that moment she became his political as well as his personal partner. She took an active part in all his campaigns, served as his secretary while he was in the House, and aided him in preparing his speeches. They had four children, Philip, now a partner in the senator's law firm at Madison; Fola, the wife of George Middleton New York playwright; Mrs.

Mary Sucher, and Robert LaFollette, Jr. For almost a year when the youngest boy was ill during the war, Senator LaFollette was his nurse, carrying him in his arms for hours and finally winning a desperate fight against death.

The Senator's friends and supporters in his home state were legion. He was numbered among his personal friends some of those he most harshly attacked on the stump. Among these was the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, who was a close companion of his Wisconsin critic in the Senate for a long time preceding his death.

Traffic posts with red signs reading "safety zone" have been placed in the rectangular spaces painted on the College-ave pavement at Onondaga where the city street cars stop. One set of these is at the east crossing and one at the west.

This was done to give further protection to persons getting on and off street cars. The space between the posts and the rails is a zone forbidden to traffic and persons within it have no fear of being molested.

Chief George T. Prim of the police department warns motorists to drive outside the posts at all times. Any car passing within violates the traffic ordinance and arrest and fine will be the consequence.

FARM PURCHASER SEEKS $11,500 ON FRAUD CHARGE

Edward Wentzel Says He Was Induced to Buy Thistle Infested Farm in Center.

The jury in the case of Edward Wentzel vs. August Kasten, charged with defrauding the plaintiff on a land deal on property in the town of Center, was entertained by a ride into the country Thursday morning when a recess was taken to allow the jurymen to inspect the land in question.

Kasten, who owned the land, engaged R. F. Shepherd, Appleton realtor, to sell it for him. It is alleged, Shepherd conspired with William Greening and John Lieby, brothers-in-law of Wentzel to defraud him on the property on the promise of a reward if the deal went through, the complaint stated. Wentzel was asked to pay $32,000 for the farm, free of all poisonous weeds, he said. He finally purchased the property for $31,500, but when he inspected it, now and he covered the ground and he could not see the soil and weeds, he said. At the time of the visit, between November 10 and 15, 1924, Kasten was alleged to have told the purchaser that there were practically no weeds on the property and it was well worth $32,000. Later he found it to be full of Canada thistles and quack grass and after three years extra hard work he was unable to raise a decent crop. Wentzel declared that the farm was worth only $20,000 and he is suing to recover $11,500 with interest from Nov. 15, 1921.

Student Traces Chinese Trade To 2,300 Years B. C.

Contrary to the common impression that the foreign trade of China is of comparative recent origin, it is shown in a thesis prepared by Cham Yin Yee, a graduate student at Lawrence college, that China started its trade with foreign countries 2,300 years before the Christian era and foreign trade has been more or less continuous since that time. Mr. Yee wrote a thesis on the Commercial Development of China to win his master's degree in economics at Lawrence. Last year he received his bachelor's degree and returned to Lawrence for a year of graduate work. He expects to spend another year in study after which he will return to China to enter business.

His thesis, prepared under the direction of Dr. D. O. Kinsman, head of the department of economics at the college, is a graphic description of the growth of China in a commercial way. Part of the chapter devoted to the growth of foreign commerce is printed herewith:

Commercial activities were common in China as early as in the Hsia and Shang dynasties, 2205-1122 B. C. At that early period the people were engaged chiefly in farming and were scattered about in small villages or towns throughout the country. The exchanges of that time took place at the side of the wells where people who lived in the village came for water; and later fairs were established in front of the temples during the season of worship. Inhabitants coming from different localities or communities to worship were thus encouraged to trade. In those early ages, the transportation of produce from one region to another was by boats plying the rivers.

There was no money at that time, and exchanges were made by barter; but a little later shells were used as a common medium of exchange. Metallic money was originated about 1114-1072 B. C. In 1103 a mint was established, in which were cast round coins of copper with a square hole in the center for convenience in stringing on a cord. These coins continue to be used to the present day. Silver bullion was used in this period, but it was not coined into money for over four thousand years, it being late in the nineteenth century that a silver standard was established in China. At the present time, unminted silver is still in use in some parts of the western China, where modern civilization has not yet penetrated.

After a long use of coins and unminted silver as a medium of exchange, paper money came into existence. Paper money has been in use in China longer than in any other country in the world. In 119 B. C. the collection of imperial dues in money made of deer skin has shown in the ancient Chinese records. Similar skin money is known to have circulated widely in the Han dynasty, which was in the first and second centuries. Later, pieces of linen about two feet long had stamped upon them a bond and promise to pay a certain amount of money were used as currency for several centuries.

China opened commercial relations with foreign countries in a very early day. Her earliest foreign trade was about 2300 B. C. Howerfore have no definite record regarding it. In 675 B. C. sea trade with the Indian Ocean caused the establishment of a colony at Kiaochow, in Shantung province for a few years. The first record of China's foreign commercial relations was during the Han dynasty, 202 B. C.—220 A. D. which took place with the Roman Empire. Trade was carried on by two great land routes across Central Asia, one passing north, and one south of the Caspian Sea.

At the close of the fifth century during the Tang dynasty the Turks appeared on the Chinese frontiers to purchase silk and wadding in exchange for articles of their own production. Tea appeared for the first time as an article of commerce, and from that day the tea trade has been a most important business with the West.

A study of foreign commercial relations must include a consideration of the establishment of the European in China. The first group to establish a trading post in the China Empire were the Portuguese. In 1517 Fernao Pere de Andrade entered the Canton River in the southern part of China with two ships and his demand the privileges of commercial intercourse was received in good spirit by the Chinese Government and the people. But in 1545, because of the high-handed manner in which the Portuguese carried on their business relations, the Ming Emperor gave orders to attack the Portuguese by land and sea, and they were expelled from the Chinese territory.

For half a century the Chinese closed their gates to all foreigners. The principal reasons for doing so were first, the report of the conquest of the East Indies and the forcible occupation of parts of India and of the Malay Peninsula by the Portuguese adventurers which awakened the suspicious of the Chinese as to the ulterior motives of the foreigners who were rapidly flocking to the Chinese shores; secondly, the unfavorable impressions regarding Europeans, and the great cruelty of both Portuguese and Spaniards; thirdly, the Europeans came to trade in arms and the Chinese loved peace; and fourthly, the progressive spirit of the Western civilization was full of restless desire for change, which were opposed to Slightly higher pressure covers most of the west with generally fair weather and moderate temperature. This promises to dominate conditions in this section Thursday night and Friday, with a continuation of generally fair weather and moderate temperature.

THE FOUR SEAWAYS

Americans seeking light on the problem of carrying midwest freight by water to the sea are becoming increasingly confused by the multiplication of plans for ship canals. Two years ago the only route seriously discussed was that of the St. Lawrence river.

When Chicago and midwestern interests clashed temporarily on the matter of the Chicago drainage canal, an old plan for a deep waterway to the gulf was dragged in as a Chicago argument for continuing to steal lake levels. The sewage question is settled but the lakes-to-gulf seaway is still a potent rallying point of conjecture. It really doesn't require a fast flow, and had no proper connection whatever with the drainage canal project: so that from the standpoint of merit it is as live as ever. It is just possible we could have both the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi seaways, the first for large vessels and the second for barges requiring no more than nine feet of water, and find traffic enough for each. But the St. Lawrence plan stands first.

At the same time that the gulf canal was being discussed, New York—fearful lest its position of dominance in the handling of freight might be periled by the St. Lawrence deep waterway—succeeded in obtaining publicity and a certain amount of support for what in effect might be a real competitor of that route, a deep New York state canal to the Hudson which would constitute about one-third of the whole lakes-to-ocean distance.

Of course there is always in the background the possibility, in case American plans fall through, that the Canadians will carry out the perfectly feasible though costly Georgian bay canal project connecting that bay and Lake Huron directly with Montreal, 440 miles distant, via twenty-seven locks.

Of all these plans the engineers long ago picked the St. Lawrence route as the most advantageous. It involves the element of international co-operation without excessive cost to either Canada or the United States. It calls for profitable international power development. It would create a 25-foot canal to the sea, not a barge canal, and thus permit loading of ocean steamers on the lakes for trips abroad without transfer of cargo.

But perhaps most important of all, it is the plan established in the hearts of the great producing population who live in the middle west. It has appealed to their imaginations and is under a tremendous impetus of good will. It has easily the largest and most important interested backing, perhaps because it is the natural and obvious route to the Atlantic coast, the great lakes' own outlet. No other plan can possibly conjure the popular support already behind the St. Lawrence waterway. If speed in accomplishment is any object, if the recommendations of government engineering experts in joint investigation for both the United States and Canada are any basis of judgment, the St. Lawrence is the scheme to be backed by congress.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tide-water association has recently declared that it will confine its efforts to the St. Lawrence route and pay no attention to the others; and that "the middle west will accept no substitute for the open road to the sea by the St. Lawrence." The substitutes, it believes quite rightly, are not "just-as-goods." They are obstructive substitutes or inferior ones. A project as great in its import as this relief to the bottled-up middle west with its high freight rates and imperfect service should not be made the football of sectional politics.

LIVERMORE'S GAMBLE

According to a Kansas City Star report of the grain probe now under way, Jesse Livermore of New York sold fifty million bushels of wheat on the Chicago market from the first of the year until April. He sold it in batches of a million to more than five millions in a single day; and when his tremendous selling had helped to drive the price down, he would buy back and sell again.

That is an indication of the pile-driver pounding to which the wheat market was subjected for purposes of pure speculation. Livermore's total sales were more than the entire wheat production of most states. Other operators sold great quantities, though Livermore held the record.

Livermore started out with plenty of capital, so that his first losses when he sold during the early rise to $2 did not bother him. He simply kept on pummeling the poor old price of wheat until the break came, and then greased the skids day after day. The "bulls," many of them equally speculators, were powerless to halt the raid of Livermore and his bearish comrades.

There is simply no relation between this sort of market operation and the true law of supply and demand. It is controlled by expert gamblers and margin men instead of people who are actual grain dealers and bona fide producing purchasers. The weapons are not facts but rumors and unnatural market influences.

Farmer-dealers would have little or no chance in such a market unless astute speculators played their game for them. There are said to have been times when Europe would have bought heavily if price had been anywhere near a proper supply and demand basis. It is hardly surprising that Secretaries Jardine and Hoover are proposing some drastic regulations which will keep the Jesse Livermores out of the market, or at least compel them to content themselves with what they would probably regard as piker stakes—a million bushels or so a day above the "hedge" of bona fide grain traders.

THAT BENNETT RACE

Popularly there is supposed to be some scientific interest attached to the Gordon Bennett balloon races, another of which has ended with the usual Belgian victory. Actually it is difficult to discover any technical mention of the events.

The only balloons considered in standard articles on modern aeronautics are kite balloons for wartime observation. The dirigible and airplane have monopolized practical aviation. Of course the study of wind currents retains some academic interest, but there are really few experiments possible to a wandering balloon which cannot be performed in better fashion by a machine under control.

In the last century balloons were used to take samples of air at various levels, to do weather research, even in one tragic case back in 1897 to seek the north pole by an ascension from Spitzbergen. Today sport is very nearly the only peacetime utilization left. That the trophy race is primarily a sport event is indicated by the queer role which seems to have robbed Van Orman, the American entrant, of the prize.

Actually traveling farther than the others Van Orman came down in the Atlantic and disobeyed the "ground rules" when he and his crew instead of paddling to land hailed a passing steamer, thereby "accepting aid." Science would have said: "Go as far as you can and get back as you like." Sport made a more hazardous game of it.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

WHEW BUT IT'S HARMLESS

Experienced physicians with highly trained senses can feel, see, hear or smell things which are scarcely appreciated by or appreciable to others. I have known good doctors who staked a diagnosis of typhoid fever in a doubtful case upon the peculiar odor they could detect about the body of one ill of typhoid. Several diseases have their distinctive body odor, notably smallpox. But this characteristic odor in itself is absolutely harmless in every instance, whether it is particularly disagreeable or offensive or not. Even the odor of senility is a poor criterion. Some folks associate certain odors with cleanliness, but this is purely an association of ideas and there is no specific odor which signifies either esthetic or hygienic (sanitary) cleanliness. The perfumes used by women sometimes suggest to those who know the origin and significance of certain scents, anything but pleasant thoughts. This whole question of odor is a matter of psychology and has practically no importance in physiology or hygiene. I for instance find nothing offensive in the atmosphere of the operating room, the dissecting room or other places where no doubt various odors occur, but please deliver me from confinement in a room where there are carnations polluting the air with their ghastly feto; it sickens me, although I recognize perfectly that it is purely an association of the carnation odor with unhappy events in life.

The sebum or oil secreted by the sebaceous glands is poured out upon the surface of the skin through the common ducts of sweat and oil glands, both glands emptying in the well of the hair follicle, wherever there is a hairy or downy covering of the skin (that is everywhere except the soles and palms). The sebum serves to keep the skin soft, smooth, warm, clear and pliable. It is a better preservative of the skin than any other artificial. Decomposition of the sebum under the clothing too effectively shuts out the air, probably contributes to the disagreeable odor associated with that fault of hygiene. The exact composition of the sebum is undetermined, but physiological chemists tell us it contains fats and soaps, some cholesterol, a kind of casein, remnants of epithelial cells, and minute traces of the inorganic salts which are present in sweat.

The composition of sweat is likewise difficult to determine exactly for it varies considerably in different individuals and at different times in the same individual but this is a fair representation of the analysis of sweat:
Water..... 995.58 parts per thousand
Ordinary salt..... 3.00 parts per thousand
Potassium chloride..... 0.25 parts per thousand
Alkaline phosphates..... 0.21 parts per thousand
Alkaline phosphates..... 0.008 parts per thousand
Albuminates lactates fatty acids. Insignificant traces sometimes found.Urea acid creatinin ethereal sulphates of phenol and stialol..... Insignificant traces
The excretory function of the skin is obviously of no practical importance so far as the elimination of waste matter is concerned. This physiological fact which cannot be contradicted unless you would sweep aside all scientific knowledge and substitute figments of imagination is worthy of repetition:
Nothing of consequence is excreted (eliminated, thrown off) by the skin in health or in sickness, except salt and water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Neuritis Bobs Up Anon.

Kindly let me know the cause of neuritis and how to prevent it. (H. T.)
Answer.—Neuritis means inflammation of a nerve, somewhere. It is questionable whether an attempt to give a general description would do anybody any good. Among the causes of neuritis are alcoholism, poisoning with lead, arsenic and sometimes other metals, the toxins of such infectious diseases as syphilis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, influenza; extension of inflammation from adjacent tissues, injury of the nerve. So you see an attempt to answer your question would be like trying to tell folks how to keep well in half a column. Then, again, such a question might be sent in from morbid curiosity, that is, by some one in the very unhealthful business of collecting symptoms and try hard not to encourage that bad habit. There are already far too many misguided folk cultivating imaginary "neuritis."

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did not know what I was doing. I was washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sarsaparilla and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

INDIANS' SUIT FOR BILLIONS GETS STARTED

Action to Recover 6,000,000
Acres of New York Land
Is Filed in Court

Kaukauna—Indians living in Kaukauna and vicinity have been informed that a test suit to determine the ownership of 6,000,000 acres of land in western New York state has been filed in the northern district federal court at Utica by the Six Nations of Indians. Preparations for the suit for recovery of the lands have been under way for a long time and Kaukauna Indians have had their share in events. A long campaign to raise funds for the suit has just been completed.

The Six Nations base their claim on a treaty made between the Iroquois confederacy and the United States government Oct. 22, 1784 at the end of the Revolutionary war. They hold this treaty gave the confederacy a title to most of New York state west of Utica and all subsequent sales and deeds are invalid because they were signed by individuals and not by the confederacy as a sovereign nation.

Mrs. O. G. Kellogg, an Oneida Indian and an author of some note, who has been active for years in reviving the national spirit of the Iroquois and protecting their interests, is in New York making preparations for the suit. Mrs. Kellogg has on several occasions spoken in Kaukauna, a few times to local business men but often to the Indians living in this neighborhood.

This is going to be the biggest land suit in history," Mrs. Kellogg said. "By the Fort Stanwix treaty of 1784 the Six Nations ceded to the United States most of the land that is now the state of Ohio while the Iroquois held by right of conquest. In return the United States promised peace and protection to the Six Nations in the lands they had occupied long before the coming of the white man. "Since then these lands have been sold bit by bit but the Six Nations, who were the common proprietors of all the land never sanctioned these sales. There are about 15,000 Iroquois Indians all whom are interested in this suit but only about 12,000 are enrolled tribal members. "It is estimated that should the action be decided in favor of the Indians each member of the Six Nations will receive approximately $25,000.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR NEW SCHOOL

Henry Gniessch Will Erect $8,300—Building at Town of Maple Creek at Once

Special to Post-Crescent
Maple Creek—Henry Gniessch was awarded the contract by the school board Monday evening for the erection of a new building for Golden Hill school at a cost of $8,350. Henry Gniessch of Appleton, and Clintonville and Gresham contractors also submitted bids.

The old school house was torn down under the direction of the school board and the material will as far as possible be used in the new construction.

The old building had been used for school purposes for 40 years. Another old landmark of the town is disappearing in the dismantling of the old Robert Hutchison home. It is the only old residence that remains in Maple Creek and is said to be more than 60 years old. The farm is now owned by Laurence Flanagan who will use the material under the other siding for the other building purposes. Mr. Flanagan says the boards used for the roof and inner walls are all of 12-inch pine and in perfect condition.

From any fruit — Delicious Jams and Jellies every time

OH, it's so easy now! Before, no matter how experienced you were, you could never be sure—sometimes jelly and jam just didn't turn out. No amount of care seemed to positively safeguard you.

But you never have a failure with Certo—no desperate re-boiling—the most difficult fruits jelly perfectly. For Certo is the substance in fruit that makes it jelly—fruit can't jelly without it.

This jelly-making element is completely lacking in some fruits, others have only a little, and even in the fruits that naturally contain most of it, it gradually diminishes as they ripen. But now, because Certo itself supplies the all-important jelly-making property, you can make your jam and jelly of the richest ripe fruits—those with the finest flavor and loveliest color. You can even use fruits that have in themselves no jelly-making property.

So easy—so quick—no juice and flavor boil away

Less than 15 minutes from fruit to jam or jelly! Certo means that just one minute's active boil is needed. No more standing stirring over a hot stove—no long boiling that reduces the amount of your jelly—no loss in steam of flavor, color and juice.

Certo's brief boil saves you all the fruit that used to boil away. When you count up the cost you will find that with Certo you have half again as many glasses as you ever got from that much fruit. Millions of housewives now use Certo all the time. Your grocer has Certo. Order a bottle right away. Douglas-Pecin Corp., Granite Building, Rochester, New York.

Clear, sparkling, firm, yet tender—every glass you make with Certo.

Every growing child craves sweets. Active little bodies demand sugar. But children's candy must be pure—and they should not overeat.

Life Savers, the little candy mints with the hole (life saver shape), answer this problem in just the right way. They are china-hard and deliciously flavored. This means that Life Savers are eaten slowly. Children suck them to make those wonderful flavors

POCAHONTAS COAL BREAKS IN HANDLING

Early Buyers of This Coal
Get Better Fuel at Much Lower Cost

Pocahontas Coal is burned in large quantities in Appleton each winter. The demand for it is increasing rapidly and dealers face a real problem in handling it.

There is always a certain amount of dust in Pocahontas Coal. This dust is not waste. It is good fuel that has broken or dusted away from the larger lumps.

The longer Pocahontas coal stands in cars, on docks or in yards, the greater the amount of dust, because this kind of coal is very breakable. It will not stand handling nor will it stand weather changes.

Pocahontas Coal should be delivered to the consumer in the summer time. Purchased then it comes direct from the mine and is subject to less breakage. It can be thoroughly dampened during warm weather, but cannot be wet in the winter because water freezes before it penetrates the coal pile. Buy Pocahontas Coal in the summer. The price is lower. The coal is better. It comes to you without dust or dirt to litter up basement and home. Buy it now.

SEEK BIDS ON SIDEWALK ALONG JOHN-ST BRIDGE

Danger to Pedestrians Will Be Removed When Sidewalk
Is Completed

Plans and specifications for a cantilever sidewalk on John-st bridge were approved by the city council in regular session Wednesday night, and a resolution adopted to instruct the board of public works to advertise for bids for its construction. The installation of sewers in Mason, Spruce, Locust, Owassa, Eighth and Victoria-sts also was authorized.

The plans and specifications, for building the John-st walk and installation of the sewers were referred to the committee of the whole, and the sewer plans were adopted immediately after the recommendation of the committee had been read.

Alderman Mark Catlin suggested that unless the council intended really to build the John-st walk this year or next, it would be an injustice to construction firms to advertise for bids. To this Alderman Charles Thompson replied that it seemed unlikely that the council would instruct the city engineer to draw up plans and specifications for the walk at a considerable cost in time and effort, unless it was intended to use them.

Alderman C. F. Smith stated that although he realized that under present conditions it is extremely dangerous for pedestrians to cross John-st bridge, it was his opinion that the bridge across the Fox river on S. Oneida-st was more in need of repairs than the John-st bridge. He said that the blocks with which the S. Oneida-st bridge are paved are crumbling and that vehicles crossing there were in constant danger of falling through.

Mayor John Goodland Jr. replied that the blocks were laid on a reinforced concrete base and that therefore the danger of a cavern was slight. He said the board of public works has under its consideration a plan to resurface the S. Oneida-st bridge with a two-inch layer of bitulithic pavement while the equipment is in the city. He said that this might be done at a cost of perhaps $1 per square yard and would answer all purposes.

After Aldermen McGilgan and Callahan had described the danger to pedestrians of crossing the John-st bridge on the present narrow sidewalk, the council voted unanimously to adopt the plans and to advertise for bids.

and there will be no cost connected with same, yet everyone is eligible to win one of the fifty prizes aggregating $100.00 in value. "MAN LIFE PASSED BY"
Showing at the Elite theatre today and tomorrow, "The Man Life Passed By," Victor Schertzinger's new Metro production, reveals itself as an intriguing photoplay bound to please every fan. It tells a dramatic story, written by Mr. Schertzinger with Winifred Dunn, who did the continuity, and it is rich in elements of popular appeal. It is only to be entertaining and succeeds admirably.

An excellent cast that has Percy Marmont, Jane and Eva Novak in star roles, Cullen Landis, Lydia Knott and Hobart Bosworth, make very real this story of a man who finally rises triumphant through the help of the daughter of his enemy, over misfortunes that nearly downed him. The absorbing action, interspersed with fights and thrills, has many gripping dramatic scenes.

Chester A. Lyons was photographer, and J. J. Hughes art director. Mr. Schertzinger directed the picture with the skill that he did "Long Live the King." It has been given a sumptuous production by Metro.

STARTLING STORY TOLD IN THE BATTLING FOOL
Once again it is proved that a real live story plus an excellent cast with such stars as William Fairbanks and Eva Novak will go on pleasing movie fans as long as there are theatres in which to show them.

The Battling Fool at the New Bijou theatre Friday and Saturday is the story of a small town chap who is a born fighter but always a gentleman, never the bawling, noisy, blustering type, just a boxer for the love of sport. But his love for athletics was more or less kept down by his father who, by the way, was the minister of a village church. Then a twist of fate forced him into the fight game to save the girl he loves from permanent invalidity. The girl's parents and the boy's father turn their backs upon him but in the end he wins out. W. S. VanDyke, who directed the picture, again demonstrated his right to be called "one of the best." His sets are beautiful, artistic and practical, and in no place in the picture does he introduce a false note.

The element of mystery and suspense plus a wonderful love interest is well carried through the entire picture.

The fire scenes in The Battling Fool are most spectacular and keep the thrill and action of the story to the last.

"RAMSHACKLE HOUSE"
ENTERTAINING FILM
"Ramshackle House," which comes to Fischers Appleton theatre on Sunday and Monday is one of those pictures that fits everyone's penchant whether it be for romance, mystery or adventure in strange settings, because all three ingredients are in evidence in copious quantities. As for thrills, there's a big one in every sequence and they aren't time-worn, either; they have the added advantage of being novel. A daring rescue from a giant alligator in the treacherous Everglades of Florida and the slow drowning of the hero shut up in the ballast bulkhead of a yacht, are enough to make the most blasé moviegoer tense with excitement.

Betty Compson is more appealing than ever. She can wear an old pal-or overalls and a rickety hat and look positively ravishing. As usual, her work is excellent. John Davidson as the villain is splendid and Robert Lowing is a good-looking leading man.

"Ramshackle House" is the screen's version of Hulber. Footnote popular novel of the same name. Harmon Weight directed and did a splendid job.

You'll play safe on this one. It's real entertainment!

"Cupid" Hantschel Considers Installation of Cozy Corners for Waiting Couples

"My most embarrassing moment" was more than a myth in the lives of a number of Outagamie county couples Tuesday afternoon as a result of the big rush to become June brides which is still underway. No less than nine young couples crowded the little office at the west end of the courthouse at one time in search of the "faint" license. It seemed like a hundred to the two frantic clerks, who "took them as they came" for most of the afternoon. The "extra" couples stood around watching the others go through the experience. They sidled around the doorway, with various types of peculiar expressions ranging from "fused" to attempts to look unconcerned. All of them were blushing. John A. Hantschel, official cupid of the county, has about decided to install davenport and "cozy corners" so that no time will be wasted in waiting.

In contrast to the large number of marriage licenses issued the last few weeks is the relatively small number of divorces. If licenses count or anything, Outagamie-co will soon be the paradise for peace-loving married folks for while marriage licenses average around fifteen a week, no divorces have been granted in the last three weeks or month, according to H. A. Shannon, clerk of courts.

EXTRA GRADING BOOSTS LAW-EST PAVING COSTS

Paving costs to Lawest property owners will be higher than to those on other streets on which bitulthic pavement is to be laid because of the grading that will have to be done on that street, according to information from the office of the city engineer. The cost per running foot on Lawest will be $5.15, on Meade-st, which, like Lawest, is 28 feet wide, $4.20, on John-st $4.07, and on Bateman-st $4.57.

The cost of the bitulthic pavement itself per square yard will be the same on all the streets where it is to be laid, and is said to be the lowest quotation for that kind of pavement made in Wisconsin in ten years.

STATE HIGHWAYS IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

Practically all the state highways of Wisconsin are in fine condition, in spite of recent rains, according to a report from the state highway commission, received at the office of A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner. The report:

"All state highways in Wisconsin are in splendid condition. The season thus far has been almost entirely without rain except that the western portion was benefitted by the rain of the early part of the week. Very little heavy construction work is being done, therefore few detours are necessary. Detours are all well-marked and maintained."

BEGIN WORK TO DEEPEN RIVER

Government Dredges Dig Out
Green Bay Channel so Larger Boats Can Get in Harbor

Preliminary work in connection with the project of deepening a part of the Fox river below the government locks at De Pere has been started by government dredges.

The purpose of the project is to deepen the channel to nine feet to permit passage of larger tugs and barges on the river. The low stage of water which has troubled waterpower industries this spring is interfering with navigation at De Pere now. Tugs and barges have been delayed repeatedly between Green Bay and De Pere, sometimes having to tie up for 24 hours at a time until the wind shifted and drove the water back into the river.

The deepening project will require about two months to complete. Money is being advanced by the paper industries of the Fox river valley. The money will be repaid out of an appropriation which congress is expected to make next year. The work is a part of the general improvement project authorized by the last congress.

Other work is under way at Little Rapids, near De Pere, where the dam will be rebuilt with concrete.

SUMMER PIANO SCHOOL AT CONSERVATORY

Summer school will be held at Lawrence Conservatory of Music for the first time this year. Miss Gladys Brainard will continue her piano classes for the benefit of those who wish to study music during the summer months.

Children who have never studied piano before will be taught music. Summer school is a new feature of the conservatory program.

LAW SLOWS UP COUNCIL'S FIGHT ON CARNIVALS

WOULD EXTEND ZONE OF QUIET TO AID PATIENTS

Council Instructs City Attorney to Continue His Investigation

Measures to prevent carnivals from showing on the vacant lot at the intersection of S. Oneida- and Calumet sts. in the Fourth ward, were discussed by the city council Wednesday night, after the opinion of Attorney Homer H. Benton regarding this matter had been read. Mr. Benton who had been appointed to act with Alderman Mark Catlin, also an attorney, in the absence of Alfred C. Bosser, city attorney, stated that the right of the city to enjoin carnivals from showing there was doubtful. He said that a carnival per se was not a nuisance, and that unless it could be proved that it was causing annoyance to an ordinary citizen under ordinary circumstances no injunction could be made to stand. A patient in St. Elizabeth hospital could not be considered as an ordinary citizen under ordinary circumstances, he went on, and if the city or any individual would secure an injunction against the carnival, the enjoiner might find himself faced with the necessity of making good the loss to the carnival later.

EXTEND QUIET ZONE

After Mark Catlin had further explained this opinion, in which he concurred, he advised that the common council seek to extend the zone of quiet around the hospital to include the lot where the carnivals usually show. He said this would be difficult because the lot is in Calumet-co. and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the city. An alternative plan was to start action against the owner of the lot, on the grounds that he was permitting the use of his property to the annoyance of his neighbors. Alderman Catlin suggested.

After a short discussion in the council, it was decided to instruct the city attorney to investigate to see what might be done legally to establish a quiet zone around St. Elizabeth hospital. Meanwhile Mr. Catlin stated that he would consult with John Schwalbach, chairman of the Town of Harrison in which the vacant lot is situated.

ELKS BRING CIRCUS

Several aldermen offered objections to granting the request of the local Elks lodge to bring a circus here in July in order to raise money for charitable purposes, but after the matter had been threshed out in the committee of the whole, the permit was granted.

Opponents of granting the permit stated that this would create a bad precedent in view of the agitation against carnivals. They were assured by J. E. Bailett, executive ruler of the Elks that the circus they intend to bring here had no carnival features whatever connected with it. The representative of the circus who accompanied the Elks delegations that presented the request, said that with the exception of the actual circus performers, all features of the circus would be under the direction and supervision of the Elks, and that the entire circus and concessions would be housed under one large canvas top and therefore easy to control.

FREEDOM CHURCH HAS

CORPUS CHRISTI FETE

Freedom—Corpus Christi feast day was observed at St. Nicholas church June 11. A high mass was sung at 10 o'clock by the former pastor, the Rev. Father Van Heyster of DePere and was followed by a procession through the cemetery. Benediction took place at the altars erected for the occasion.

Merchants Stock Up With Neckties For "Dad's Day"

Every dad has his day at least once a year, and this year dad's day will be on Sunday, June 21. "Give dad a tie on dad's day," all the Appleton clothing merchants are saying. Dad now "rates" at least three ties a year, for besides Christmas and ties birthday, we now have dad's day, when it is altogether fitting and proper that everyone should remember him with some little token, in appreciation for all that he has done in earning our daily bread and butter for us.

Dad's day is of much more recent origin than mothers day. The custom of buying dad a tie on "this day" is an old one in the eastern states, but in Appleton, and in this part of the country it has only been recognized in the last three years. While there is not the seriousness and sentiment in the observance of dad's day that is found in observance of mothers day it is expected that in the future there will be much the same feeling once a year.

Both mothers day and dad's day started as more or less commercial propositions. Florists were responsible for the origin of mothers day, and then the clothing merchants "went them one better" and started the dad's day tradition, still something rather new, but destined to become as fine an American custom as mothers day.

COUNCIL AGAIN DEBATES LIGHTS FOR HOSPITAL

College Gives Easement So City Can Maintain Lights on Lawrence Campus

Plans for extending Oklahoma-ave. one block west of Story-st were approved by the city council Wednesday night without objection, and the extension of Candee-st from Weimar-st north to the city limits was referred to the street and bridge committee. The matter of having the Chicago and Northwestern railway and the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. elevate their tracks over Wisconsin-ave was referred to the city attorney, with instructions to take proper action to get this project under way.

Several streets were added to the oiling program for this year, among them parts of Park-ave, Washington-st, Alton-st Randall-st Brewster-st and Meade-st. The city engineer was given authority to postpone the oiling of streets in which excavations are to be made for sewers and other purposes in the near future until such streets have been put in proper shape.

WOULD DEFER CHAZGE

A request by merchants of the city to delay changing the name of Badger-ave back to State-road until a new directory has been compiled was received and placed on file. The request was forwarded by the Chamber of Commerce and set forth that there was no objection to the change in itself, but that it would render the directory now in the bindery of little value.

A new directory will be compiled in two years, the letter stated, and if the change is to be made it should be delayed until that time. A communication from David Hammett, former mayor of Appleton, thanking the mayor and common council for restoring his name to the pillar of John-st bridge from which it had been removed was read and placed on file. It was also decided that the mayor and council should express their sympathy to the relatives of James E. McCabe, recently claimed by death.

A petition from the water commission that it be furnished with an order for its files whenever the council authorized the extension or installation of water mains or services was granted. On recommendation of the ordinance committee the council adopted an electrical ordinance establishing certain rules for installing services.

LIGHTS FOR CAMPUS

The opinion of the city attorney was requested regarding the right of the city to maintain lighting service on Lawrence college campus and the grounds of St. Elizabeth hospital. This matter was presented by Alderman Mark Catlin, who said that he had drawn easements for Lawrence college, giving the city the right to maintain the lights on the campus. Mr. Catlin stated that under present conditions it was dangerous to cross the campus, and that one assault case already had occurred there since the lights were turned off.

Alderman McGillan told of conditions at the hospital grounds. He stated that couples were in the habit of running their cars onto the grounds at night and parking there to "spoon" half the night. Recently, he said, it was necessary for the motorcycle police to chase a number of such cars off the grounds. If the lights were burning there, he said, this would not happen.

Alderman Charles Thompson expressed himself as willing to approve the maintenance of lights on the Lawrence campus at the city's expense, but said that he objected to the city paying for current used on the hospital grounds, because no matter how much the hospital is helping the public, it remains a private institution, while the college is a public one.

Alfred C. Bosser, city attorney, was instructed to investigate the easements drawn up by Mr. Catlin, and to report at a future meeting of the council.

ASKS PARENTS TO GUARD PLASTIC MIND OF YOUTH

London — In every child there is the spark of genius which is too often quenched, Sir John A. Cockburn told the annual conference of educational associations at University college here recently. "But if this spark is allowed to become a flame," Sir John continued, "it is wonderful what a child can do in later life." "The child's mind," said Sir John, "is clear of the mists of secretarism, party and prejudice. Above all things the parent must avoid making finger marks upon the delicate tissue of the young mind. The whole mechanism of the child's brain might easily be spoiled before ever it comes into the hands of the teachers."

GUM DIPPED BALLOONS

"Road Under Construction—Detour!" This sign has spelled disaster to many motor trips in the past. It meant bumping along at slow speed, perhaps in second or even low gear, staying in the ruts, being jerked first one way and then the other. And when you turned out to pass a car, provided you could get out of the rut, there was the possibility of getting stuck in the ditch.

In these days of Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons, detours don't mean a thing. You don't mind ordinarily rough detour roads—holes, ruts and bumps disappear—the wheel does not "fight" you when you turn out of a rut—and the added road contact gives the needed traction.

A day's run that used to "play you out" now leaves you feeling fit. This summer's motoring will be a never-to-be-forgotten pleasure if you put on these big tires—now is the time—come in and let us show you how easy it is to get your set.

GIRL DROWNS IN 3 FEET OF WATER AT SCOUT CAMP

Body of Rose Martell is Recovered Ten Minutes After She Is Missed by Companions

Menasha—Miss Rose Martell, 13, daughter of Officer and Mrs. Joseph Martell, 275 Prospect-st., was drowned Thursday afternoon at the boy scout camp on the east side of Lake Winnebago while bathing. Her body was recovered within ten minutes after she was missed and was found in about three feet of water.

Miss Martell was a member of Twin City Troop No. 1, Girl Scouts, of which Mrs. H. S. Lyons is captain. The troop, composed of 18 members, left for the camp early in the morning for a day's outing, chaperoned by Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. George Banta, Jr., and Miss Florence Regner.

Nobody saw Miss Martell when she disappeared beneath the surface of the water. According to Mrs. Lyons, the girls were all in bathing and as soon as Miss Martell was missed a search for her was instituted. Her body was found in about three feet of water close by. It was taken to shore and an effort made to resuscitate her. In this the chaperones were assisted by Dr. Weber of Sherwood, who was immediately sent for. The doctor and the chaperones worked over the body more than two hours.

DAVIS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CHURCH COUNCIL

Plans for Promoting Religious Day School Discussed at Annual Meeting

C. O. Davis was elected president of the Appleton Council of Religious Education at the annual meeting Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Other officers elected were R. E. Carnerose, vice president; John Trautman, secretary and treasurer; Dr. J. R. Denyes, director. The report of the nominating committee stated the new officers for the positions and they were elected by acclamation.

Standing committees and their chairmen for the ensuing year were appointed and the report of Dr. Denyes, director of the religious day school, was read. After the report Dr. Denyes read several recommendations and stated that 230 children had been enrolled in the school. A resolution was adopted expressing the appreciation of the council to Lawrence college for allowing Dr. Denyes to conduct the school on college time with a salary refund and it was decided to request the college authorities to renew the arrangement for next year.

A discussion was held on making the religious day school a part of the union affair, but no steps were taken in the matter. The need of an organized promotion to "sell" the project more fully to the churches was discussed and a committee of three was appointed to consider the plan and submit a report for next year at a fall meeting. The secretary was instructed to send several copies of Dr. Denyes' report to each pastor in the city to help promote interest in the school.

Recently it was announced that the time limit for reinstatement was June 1, 1925, but Mr. Bosser said this applied only to policy holders who are more than 10 per cent disabled.

PULP MAKING CURTAILED BECAUSE OF LOW WATER

Manufacturers on the Fox river who are much concerned over present water levels in water reservoirs and streams. Streams are usually at a flood stage at this time of the year, but this year the water is at a new low point.

Heavy rains of the last few days, however, have helped to increase the flowage to some extent, and it is believed that if further downpours are experienced, it will become necessary to open the sluice gates, according to Thomas W. Orbison, Appleton engineer.

Ground wood pulp, which is produced almost entirely by waterpower, will be extremely scarce. Since this grade of pulp is used extensively in the manufacture of paper, prices are expected to climb to high levels and also curtail the production of paper.

A heavy blanket of snow which usually covers this section of the country four months of the year was almost entirely absent this year, and when the thaws came, the usual spring freshets did not appear.

TRAINED BULL AT GRANGE PICNIC

Interesting Program Is Prepared for Annual Outing of Greenville Children

The annual children's picnic of the South Greenville Grange will be held in the Charles House grove near the grange hall on Saturday, June 20.

A grand march of children and members of the grange is to start at 10 o'clock, a musical and literary program consisting of songs, drills, dialogues, and recitations, executed by children will begin at 11 o'clock and at noon, a basket picnic dinner will be served. The young members of the grange will perform in pantomime and dialogues at 1 o'clock and an hour later an address will be delivered by Charles Everett, editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist.

The program will close with games and contests for children, and other exercises illustrating how fun on the farm may be created by training domestic animals and requiring them to perform. The farm bull has earned the reputation of being a dangerous animal. Henry Schaefer will demonstrate at the picnic how these animals may not only be made safe but also pets by sensible treatment and training. Mr. Schaefer will close the program with a performance of his trained bull. The New London band has been engaged to furnish music.

These petitions, which are said to have a large number of signatures, recommend that licenses be refused to any owner or proprietor of a soft drink parlor who has been convicted of violating the prohibition law.

TRADE SCHOOL TEACHER PUBLISHES HIS POEMS

A volume of poems entitled "Dreams That Live" will be published this spring by Ralph Culnan, a member of the Lawrence class of 1924 and now teaching at the vocational school. The book will take its name from the initial poem, and twenty-five other poems by the author will be included in the book, the first published by him.

The Torch Press of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is publishing the volume.

Several of Culnan's poems which are to appear in the volume have been previously published in well-known poetry magazines, such as the "Magazine of Verse," "Interludes," "The Buccaneer," "The Forge," "L'Alouette," "American Poetry," and in the "Bookfellow's Anthology for 1925," now on the press.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

MAJOR LOOP TEAMS BREAK ALL RECORDS FOR RUNS

American And National League Players Pound Out 322 Hits In 2 Days

Pirates Creep Up on Giants in N. L. as Mac's Boys Drop Sixth Straight

New York.—Mid-June when Major League pitchers are supposed to be warmed up to their summer tasks, finds record-breaking scoring feats appearing daily. On Tuesday, American and National League players pounded out 174 hits, including ten home runs. Wednesday 148 blows to the total, eight homers being registered.

In the past three days two American League teams have scored 12 runs in one inning—Philadelphia against Cleveland Monday and Detroit against New York Wednesday.

Babe Ruth, convalescing in right field, thought he must have been in Boston where he first gained fame. He ended the holocaust with three putouts, each of which the crowd cheered.

The score was Detroit, 13; New York, 1. The Tanks recruit first baseman dropped a homer into the right field bleachers to show that he was a die-hard.

Slim Harris pitched the sprinting Athletics to 10 to 3 victory over Cleveland, setting three singles himself.

The White Sox and the Red Sox divided a double header at Boston, 5 to 2 and 7 to 0.

Zachary engaged in a pitcher's battle with Bush at Washington, and the champions got a 2 to 1 victory over St. Louis. Manager Harris of the Senators hit safely for his 23rd consecutive game.

The Cuban, Luque, was in rare form and the Reds beat the Giants 1 to 0, although Bently pitched well.

The Pirates captured their sixth straight game with Yoke on the mound and overcame the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8 to 3. Brooks of the Cubs and Fonseca and Harper of the Phillies inserted home runs into Chicago's 5-4 victory over Philadelphia.

The day saw the passing of Everett Scott, veteran of 1307 consecutive games as short stop, from the Yankees to the Senators for the waiver price of $4,000.

MAIZE AND BLUE TO LOSE PAIR OF ACES

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Michigan will lose two of its greatest athletes by graduation this month. They are DeHart Hubbard and Charles Reinke. Both have been stars the past three seasons.

Hubbard has been virtually a certain winner in the century and broad jump, while Reinke has specialized in the half-mile run. In the recent Big Ten meet this pair took down 15 points, or about a third of the Michigan total.

They'll be hard to replace on the Maize and Blue machine. For champs of their caliber are few and far between.

P-C MEETS DARKHORSE MEYER PRESS SQUAD

Post-Crescent ball team, leaders of the Twilight League will meet the loop darkhorse, the Meyer Press squad, Friday afternoon at Jones park. The game will be the first battle of the year between the two teams. After getting off to a poor start and losing to the tallent Chair Co. team, the Press boys surprised local fans by beating the crack Bankers, runners up in the loop standings for most of the season, and victors over the Lions of the Lark loop. Good play aided the Press hurler, Colvin, who hurled a good game. The press crew has a fast-fielding crew and in Beyer, Timmers, Colvin and Reider, has a quartet of sluggers as good as any in the loop. They are in second place and expect to be the first team in Appleton to trim the P-C team this year. Batteries: Meyer Press Colvin and Reider; Post-Crescent—Wagner and Zussman.

GIANT HURLER FINED FOR "BATHTUB" STORY

Cincinnati, O.—The New York Giants opened their five game series with the Cincinnati Reds here Wednesday without the services of Pitcher Virgil Barnes, who was fined and suspended by Manager John J. McGraw in Pittsburgh for breaking the club's training rules.

Barnes did not accompany the Giants to Cincinnati, but was sent to New York to await the lifting of his suspension. According to John Tierney, secretary-treasurer of the club, Barnes left the hotel in Pittsburgh after 11:30 p. m., the official hour for players of the club to be in bed, and was out for an unknown length of time during the night. He reported the next day with a sprained ankle, which he said he had received in a fall in the hotel bathroom. McGraw learned later, it was said, that Barnes' injury was received outside the hotel and the fine and suspension followed Wednesday.

BADGER CREW IS RATED AS STRONG RACE CONTENDER

Extra Hard Work Plus Dad Vail's Knowledge Makes U. W. Show Real Stuff

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Something has happened to the Wisconsin crew. A week ago they displayed little else besides power, but in the last few days they have hit their stride and given some of the rival coaches something to think about. Dad Vail refuses to admit that he has any chances of winning the intercollegiate varsity race but he will say that he expects to be well up in front.

Vail knows his men and he knows the water conditions and, at present, he is figuring how to get the most out of both of those important elements. He put good weather strips on the varsity shell this afternoon and sagely remarked that he expected plenty of rough weather before the race.

Few crews have been worked as hard as the Wisconsin entries. But the men thrive on it. The entire squad is good natured and confident and they are attacking their work as if they meant business. The result has been several improvements. Ike Keel has straightened up in the water and the boat is able to raise the bow from low to high without rushing their slides or missing the count as they did when they first hit the Hudson.

The rowing camps are far from serene here with only four days before the race. Persistent rumors are afloat to the effect that Jim Rice has offered his resignation to the Pennsylvania rowing committee. Rice emphatically denies such is the case but it is known that all is not well internally, with the Quaker navy.

If Rice has threatened to leave his job, it was probably done to throw the fear of the almighty into the renegades in the camp.

Cornell, generally rated for last place, tossed a bomb into the midst of their crews this morning. Pop Lueder sent his varsity eight over the course and clocked them in a little over twenty minutes. The water conditions were good and Penn has made better time than so little has been expected from the Ithaca entry that their showing has set the coaches to pondering.

It has been definitely decided that Cornell will use the shell built by John Hoyte in 1909. This boat has stood the strain of many races and is more suited to the present combination than any of the new ones.

OSHKOSH LEAGUE TEAM TO GET BIG SHAKEUP

Oshkosh.—The poor showing made by the Carver baseball team of this city in their games in the Eastern Wisconsin league has caused considerable dissatisfaction both among the promoters and the public as well, and the inevitable shakeup is about to take place.

Manager "Cart" Elmer states that a number of changes will be effected in the lineup of the club this week. These changes will be both in the infield and the outfield. Lack of competition on the team has caused players to "lie down on the job," he said, and the team has been outgitted in every game. Lack of cooperation among the men has been another factor in the poor showing made.

A real pitcher is to be added to the personnel of the club and at least four new men will bolster up the holes in the infield and outfield. There is not a man on the entire club that does not need a "shake up," Manager Elmer states, and he is determined to have a fighting, winning organization if it is necessary to change the entire lineup. Next Sunday, however, with the new men on the job, the public is promised a club that will have plenty of fight and pep.

GLENN COLLETT WINS 2 MATCHES IN FRANCE

Varsities, France.—Miss Glenn Collett, former American champion, defeated Mrs. Colgrave of England, in the second round of the French Women's Golf championship by 6 up and 5 to play.

The tournament is being played over the course at Laboulle. Miss Collett in the first round Wednesday defeated Miss Garon, another English woman, by 3 and 2.

MENASHA BALL CLUB LOOKING FOR GAMES

Another new baseball team has been organized at Menasha, consisting of star players, and games are being booked with squads throughout the valley. The latest addition to Fall city ball circles is the St. Mary's Young Men's club. Any teams in the valley desiring games with the St. Mary crew should get in touch with Frank Laus, 206 First St., Menasha, or call 1766, or Gerald Eckelick, 612 Broadway, telephone 2416.

HERE'S NEW GOLF MONARCH

WILLIE MACFARLANE WITH GOLF MEDAL AND CUP

Here we have Mr. Willie MacFarlane, the new national open golf king. He came into the honors by defeating Bobby Jones at Worcester after one of the hottest struggles in the history of the classic. His victory was more or less of a surprise, as the experts hadn't given him much consideration before the tournament.

He's depicted with the medal and cup emblematic of the title.

Star Hurler Unable To Win In 1st Two Months

BY BILLY EVANS

One of the greatest pitchers in baseball yet unable to win a game during the first eight weeks of play. That is the peculiar position in which Waite Hoyt, star right hander of the New York Yankees, finds himself.

The inability of Hoyt to win consistently is one of the several reasons why the much-feared Yankees have been trailing in the second division since the opening of the season.

American League batters will tell you that no pitcher in the league has a better fast ball than Waite Hoyt. His change of pace is most deceptive. His fast-breaking curve is very puzzling.

Included in Hoyt's pitching repertoire is a slow curve. It seems every pitcher has his hobby. Using the slow curve, usually in the pinch, is Hoyt's. Opposing batters say that Hoyt's slow curve is the least effective of all his deliveries. Knowing his faith in such a ball, they look for it in the pinch.

They do say that Hoyt would be 25 per cent more effective if he eliminated entirely the slow curve from his repertoire. However, that is just part of the story.

Waite Hoyt, boasting perhaps the best fast ball in the major leagues and a dazzling change of pace, during the first two months of play in the American League has been unable to win a single ball game.

Even more surprising is the fact that he hasn't been able to finish a ball game. Ordinarily with the season one-third over, a pitcher with Hoyt's stuff should have from six to 10 victories to his credit.

Certainly a Jinx seems to be on Hoyt's trail this season. In at least a half dozen games he has appeared certain of victory only to have some tough break deprive him of it. Either he has lost the game to some other pitcher has received credit for the victory.

Just to illustrate the workings of the jinx: In a recent game with St. Louis, two out in the ninth and New York leading, 5 to 2, it looked as if Hoyt would surely go over a winner. If Hoyt has one fault, it is an inclination to grow careless. With two outs, the next batter hit weakly to Hoyt. He caught the ball rather nonchalantly, it got away from him and the batter beat the play. It should have been the third out, ending the game.

The next St. Louis batter hit a home run. That made the score 5-4. The following batter hit another home run, the score was tied. Hoyt was removed and Pennock finished. The Yankees won the game in the 10th inning.

However, a bit of carelessness had wasted eight innings of superb pitching.

Some idea of Hoyt's effectiveness is shown by the figures of the past four years. Once he won 17 games, once 18 and twice he scored 19 victories.

Despite past performances and a world of stuff, Hoyt has failed to win in 15 times out, covering two months of play.

Yes, baseball is a mighty uncertain game, as Waite Hoyt will admit.

Gebhardt Wins Extra-Inning Hurling Duel from Basing in Twilight Loop

In the first extra-inning game in local softball circles this season, the Y. M. C. A. crew battled its way to a 7 to 6 win over the fighting Footfitters Wednesday afternoon at Jones park. The game went ten innings due to the hard fight of the Footfitter crew, which came from behind twice to tie score, the second time in the ninth frame. The victory placed the "Y" crew in a triple tie for second place and shoved the Footfitters into fifth.

The game was a pitcher's battle from start to finish with Gebhardt having a slight edge over Basing, due to superior work behind him. Time after time the Footfitter fielders gave their opponents lives on poor pegs. Not a batter passed second base until the fifth frame and each pitcher turned in a number of strike outs in this time.

The "Y" scored three times in the fifth while the Footfitters crossed the plate once and both added two more in the seventh. Here the losers showed their fight by garnering runs in the eighth and another in the ninth to tie, meanwhile holding the Triangles to no runs. The "Y" gang got started in the tenth frame and garnered two scores and it began to look like a "midnight" game when the Footfitters scored once in their half, but the last two batters left the thing run stranded on third and the game ended at 7:17, (Twilight League time).

Lineups were:
Footfitters—Adler, Nienhaus, H. Douglas, Basing, Langenberg, Smith, Sauer, Fassbender, E. Douglas, Dame, Y. M. C. A.—Ashman, Gebhardt, Briese, Diederick, McCourt, Courtney, Voecks, Zussman, Reider.

Score:
Y. M. C. A. 0 0 0 0 3 0 2 0 2 7
Footfitters 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 1 1 6
Batteries—Gebhardt and Ashman; Easing and E. Douglass.

TWO GRANGES IN ICE BUSINESS THIS YEAR

Chicago.—Harold (Red) Grange, that irresistible force of the University of Illinois football eleven, who turned down movie contracts figured to earn him more than $100,000, was back at his old summer job today—peddling ice in Wheaton, his home town, a suburb of Chicago.

Grange, rated as America's outstanding football star, is earning about $20 a week, but he likes his job because, he says, it's real work and keeps him fit.

Grange has acquired a new assistant, Garland Grange, his 19-year old brother, who will be eligible for the Illinois football eleven this fall. He's another halfback.

Perhaps the famous redhead and his ball sensations as they rattle around young brother are scheming new football sensations as they rattle around the town in their silver truck between ice deliveries.

Three Local Stars Added To Lineup Of Beyer Crew For Strong 1925 Schedule

Zussman, Basing, Bernhardt in Suits for Game at Manitowoc on Sunday

With the addition of three well-known stars to an already classy lineup this week, the Beyer Sentinel ball team, now has one of the smoothest working squads of the valley on the field. The new men on the Beyer crew are John "Jack" Zussman, Lawrence are John "Jack" Zussman, Lawrence college all-around athlete, who will manage the squad on the field; Myrtle "Base" Basing, former Blue star, who will hold down a garden berth; Bernhardt, crack hurler for the strong Apple Creek team for the last three years who has been added to the mound staff. With this added strength Manager Val Beyer is scheduled to start the season with a combination of the old News-bound outfit that beat Stormy Kromer's Kaukauna State leaguers last year and another strong Bay team of 1924. This crew made Combined Looks look like school kids to beat them 15 to 4 Sunday.

Bernhardt new Beyer hurler, held Dale to one hit in six innings at Dale earlier this season. Weinikoff probably will start the game against Manitowoc with Bernhardt in reserve and third baseman Vanderloop, also ready for mound duty. "Vandy" pitched five innings against Marj's Little Chute American Legion Crew Sunday allowing these sluggers three hits and two runs in the time he toiled on the hill. He has the makings of a real hurler hidden under his third base ability and may yet

STOLE CAR FOR JOYRIDE

AND THEN TOOK TIRES

Thieves were mean to Joseph Brunt, a resident of Egbert hotel, for they not only took his roadster from Waverly beach for a joyride and made him take the interurban home, but they stripped the machine of three tires when they were through with it and abandoned it out in the country.

Brunt missed his automobile about 10:30 Wednesday night while on the beach, after having parked it there about 9 o'clock. He reported the theft to the police and a net was spread to capture the thieves.

Word reached the police Thursday morning that the automobile was left abandoned at the Verhagen farm, east of the city on rural route 6. Both of the rear tires and a spare tire had been removed.

BANKERS MEET TO TALK OVER THEIR PROBLEMS

Open Discussion Was Biggest Feature of State Meeting, Tuttrup Says

H. W. Tuttrup, president of the Citizens National bank has returned from the convention of the Wisconsin Bankers association held in Milwaukee Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Tuttrup reported a very large attendance of bankers from all over the state. He said the most interesting session was on Tuesday afternoon which was given over to sectional conferences and open forum discussions on such subjects as Methods of Computing Savings Interest, Standardization of Forms, Analysis of a Financial Statement, and the Service Charge. Each of these subjects had a leader who read a short paper which was followed by the open discussion.

The convention was opened Tuesday morning by an address by the president of the association, W. H. Doyle of Platteville. Reports of officers and auditors took up most of this session. The second session Tuesday afternoon was devoted to group discussions.

The principal feature of the third session Wednesday was an address by Andrew J. Frame of Waukesha on "Which? The Gold Standard or Managed Currency and Stabilize the World's Progress?" Two addresses were on the program for Wednesday afternoon. There were: "The American Theory of Industry," by Dr. G. W. Dyer of Vanderbilt university, representing the National Industrial Council; and "The Function of Finance," by Glenn Griswold, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce. All convention sessions were held in the Arcadia ball room of the Antlers hotel.

Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced

Never mind what people say, if you have varicose or swollen veins and want to reduce them to normal, go to Voigt's Drug Store and ask for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength). If he hasn't it, he can get it.

Apply it to the enlarged veins as directed and improvement will be noticed in a few days. Continue its use until veins return to normal size. It is guaranteed to reduce swollen veins or money back, and also to reduce swollen glands, goitre and veins.
